

Community Health Innovation Awards Workshop

The Community Health Innovation Awards are a way for participants to think boldly and creatively about solutions to “on the ground” health challenges the communities face, to work in partnership with some of the best minds in our area, and to collaborate with local businesses to complete a project. The team approach of local leaders, the UAB community, and neighborhood groups promotes the sharing of resources and expertise.

Grants, ranging from $5000 to $25,000 are awarded to local organizations whose ideas creatively and innovatively address community issues.
